Chapter 1 by awesomesauce

I never thought that saturday movie nights with my family would start my addiction. Now, I'm broke, suffer from depression, I have even attempted suicide. It all started a few years ago...

Chapter 2 by FELIPONCIO

September 3, 2016

That was the day it started. I got a late call from my family in Virginia who said they were visiting. I invited them over, and just like that, I had a plan for Saturday. I went over to Blockbusters to see if they had a movie we could all watch.

I looked a lot and ended up getting Sympathy for Lady Vengeance. I had never watched it before, and crime and drama weren't really my thing but I figured it would be fun to try.

After getting the movie I got into my 2006 Volvo S60 and drove to pick my parents up from the airport. I was ecstatic. On the ride back, with my mother, father in the back and my brother Eric in the shotgun seat we talked a lot. I was so happy to see them, it had been so long! Never in a million years would I have thought that this jolly little family reunion would be the starting point for a dangerous addiction.

The movie was... alright. I told you, I wasn't really a fan of crime movies. But I did enjoy myself. We had a pizza dinner while watching the movie, and topped it off with some delicious vanilla ice cream.

After the movie, they went to some of the spare beds I had while I slept in the basement. I decided to stay in the kitchen, cooking while they went to bed. Just left the addiction would have never...

"Mom and Dad leave in three days, but I'm staying here to visit my girlfriend," he told me casually. I nodded while drinking an ice-cold beer.

"I'll see her on Friday and I was thinking..." he said slowly. I narrowed my eyes in suspicion but nodded again.

"Want to do a movie night again on Saturday?"
